

Don't sell off public disability services

Give people with disabilities
a real CHOICE

The NSW Government has announced that they will divest themselves of all disability services by 2018. 14,000 jobs, including 1,200 nurses, are to move to the non-government sector.

This decision was made without any public debate or consultation.

What will happen to the 800 residents with disabilities, many with complex medical conditions, if the five public residential care centres, including Stockton, are closed down?

If disability services are put out to tender, will private agencies offer the same level of staffing and expertise?

Come and hear our expert panel of speakers at the

PUBLIC FORUM
11 March, 6pm
Auditorium Two
Newcastle Panthers
309 King Street,
Newcastle

Let's stand together to protect our most vulnerable citizens and ensure they continue to get the services and care they need.