

Angel in the Room

There's an angel

in the room today.

I know that

everything will be OK.

An angel in the room,

here to hold my hand,

explaining what is happening,

helps me understand.

Listening with empathy,

an angel keeps my dignity.

There's an angel in the room

to take my troubles away.

There's an angel

in the room tonight.

I know that everything will be alright.

Standing next to me
in my darkest hour,
shining out a light of hope
giving me some power.
An angel to be there
in my time of need,
elegantly working
with finesse, skill, calm, and speed.
There's an angel in the room
to help me through the night.

There's an angel
In them I confide.
There's an angel
that lets me decide.

When I know
I'm going to die
they let me grieve,
they let me cry,
take away
the fear and pain
and set me free
once again.

This angel in the room's right by my side.

There's a angel
that is my friend.

There's an angel
on who I depend
to be my strength
when I am weak,
to be my voice
when I can't speak,
keep me safe,
keep me clean,
Angels they are
so serene.

There's an Angel in the room
right now

There's an angel in the room
I can feel them near.
Although I may not see them
I can tell they're here.
Their softly spoken voice,
the gentle touch they share.
Angel's coming to me
even when I'm unaware.

It's Angels I believe in,
angels that I trust,
raise me from the ashes
when I'm crumbing to dust.
There's an angel in the room
because they care.

I see angels in the room
everywhere

I see angels in the room
everywhere

I see angels in the room
everywhere

I see angels in the room
everywhere

I see angels
