

The Story of Donning and Doffing

Donning and Doffing were siblings from the same parents and born in the slums of post-war Warsaw.

Their mother's name was Ingrid Fection; Infection for short and their father's name was Conrad Trol ;known locally as Control. Together they became known as Infection Control.

As their parents aged, Donning and Doffing played a great role in assisting and supervising the parents, Infection and Control who would both wander aimlessly as the sun set each afternoon.

Donning and Doffing worked tirelessly to try and secure safe environments for Infection and Control.

Local community members were very impressed by the way Infection and Control were governed by Donning and Doffing. Not only for securing a safe environment for their parents ,but also preventing them from being isolated. So much so that the community would sing the praises of Donning and Doffing in relation to Infection and Control in any forum they were present.

Before long Infection and Control would be referred to simply as Infection Control.

Donning and Doffing would not be mentioned or thought of without Infection Control being aligned with them.

Once only a concept of war- torn, Warsaw Donning and Doffing became internationally renowned for governing Infection Control.

To this day policies and protocols have been written and adhered to by persons finding themselves in any situation similar to and or replicant of situations in which Infection Control is to be governed and the practice once espoused by Donning and Doffing in post-war Warsaw is now a world phenomenon.
