

Ramsay: nurses celebrate better pay & on call allowances

Members give 'go ahead' in NSWNMA hospital visits

At NSWNMA meetings in all Ramsay hospitals and clinics in March-April, there has been a wonderful response from members to your improved offer on pay and conditions.

Members have now recommended that the proposed offer goes to a vote of all staff - subject to finalising the legal drafting of the new Enterprise Agreement document.

You're telling us that pay increases putting Ramsay nurses and midwives ahead of the public system, and a whopping 30% increase to on-call allowances, are two highlights of the proposal. Nurses are also discussing how the improved workload management provisions will help fix ongoing staffing issues, including paid access to e-learning.

You will most likely receive your voting details for the proposed new Agreement in late April, after the end of the NSW school holidays.

Thumbs up from St. George Private Hospital theatre nurses for our on-call win, with Assistant General Secretary Judith Kiejda

Know your entitlements: public holiday penalty rates

It is important to celebrate the public holiday penalty rates which are designed to compensate you for taking time away from your loved ones. Make sure you are aware of your entitlements if you're working over Easter.

If you have any questions about your penalty rates rights, you can call the Association's information services on 8595 1234 or 1300 367 962.

Have a safe and relaxing Easter break, and don't forget to join the Ramsay Nurses & Midwives NSWNMA Facebook group.