

Workshop: Advocacy and Campaigning on Climate Change and Health

When: 9am-5pm, Monday 26th September 2016

Where: Gadigal Auditorium at the NSW Nurses and Midwives' Association, 50 O'dea Avenue, Waterloo, NSW 2017 [10min walk from Green Square station; limited on-site parking]

Who: This workshop is targeted at health professionals who want to develop skills and support campaigns for climate action. Preference will be given to representatives of health sector organisations/groups/institutions, however individuals are welcome to apply. All attendees must be either health professionals or working in the health sector.

Cost: Free

This Workshop provides an exciting opportunity for health professionals to learn strategic campaigning skills to support their advocacy for action on climate change.

The Climate and Health Alliance, the New South Wales Nurses and Midwives Association and World Wide Fund For Nature have come together to develop a program to develop skills and confidence among health professionals to campaign for climate action.

